

Position Available: Sales Engineer

Ameri-Shred Corp. is seeking persistent candidates who can successfully exploit the technical competence of our business. Preference is given to those with technical sales experience, a strong recycling background, an estimating background, and system layout experience. Individuals must be detail oriented, self-motivated, and have strong organizational and communication skills, both written and verbal. Individuals must be able to work independently and stay current with evolving trends in recycling and information security.

Our product lines consists of the following equipment:

- Industrial shredders for document, electronic data, and product destruction – both plant-based and mobile
- Auxiliary equipment includes balers, conveyors, metering systems, dust collectors and box dumpers

In addition to competitive pay, proven contributors also enjoy health insurance, a 401(k) program with employer matching contributions, short-term sickness and accident insurance, tuition reimbursement, and paid vacation and holidays.
